

Curing Atopic Dermatitis with Ionized Water

Transcript

It was found that atopic dermatitis – whose cause is unknown, could be cured by water. Tonight we will report on more amazing effects of this wondrous water. We will show that Atopic Dermatitis, often called “childhood eczema” can be cured by it.

Atopic dermatitis is an illness accompanied by intense itching. Its cause is unknown. It has been found that this almost incurable illness can be cured by this special water.

We have been following patients with atopic dermatitis for six months and will now report on the amazing effects of this wonder water.

Atopic dermatitis is painful, causing young children to cry all night because of the intense itching. They scratch so much that sometimes they wake up to their sheets stained with blood.

My son gets itchy in the middle of the night and cries and scratches his body intensely. It happens every night. We can't sleep either so we are deprived of sleep all the time.

For treatment, doctors use adrenocortical hormones, or steroids. Even when the patient recovers temporarily, the condition always comes back, and the long time use of large amounts of steroids causes a reduction in immunity, a lowering of the functions of the adrenal gland, cataract problems and other side effects.

Recently, concerned parents of young children have begun to steer away from steroids. Now, this new water treatment has entered the spotlight many patients visit Akashi Hospital here in Tokyo.

Recently many parents have turned away from steroids. They go to many different hospitals before finally ending up here.

Twin sisters, Saki and Yu Matsubara visited Doctor Shinkai at Akashi Hospital. Their parents wanted them to be cured from atopic dermatitis without using steroids. Their bodies are red and covered with rashes.

Okay, where do you want it next? How about your hands?

For intense inflammation and itching this strong acidic water at 2.6, which was especially developed for medical use is applied. And for curing atopic dermatitis from inside the body, patients drink alkaline water. Both types are created by electrolysis. You can create this water from an electrolysis water generator [water ionizer] for home use.

Although I don't force my patients to drink more than they can, by merely drinking electrolyzed alkaline water every day, the skin becomes really clean in about 3 to 4 months.

There is an unavoidable problem when using this water treatment with patients who have been on steroids. When they stop using steroids, they face withdrawal symptoms and the situation is tough for a while.

Mr. Tomita of Kyoto was told by Dr. Shinkai in detail about the withdrawal symptoms. He consented to the treatment of his one-year old son, Ryuki without hesitation.

Look at the area around Ryuki's mouth. It used to be this bad, but now after five months of water treatment, it has gotten this clean.

None of the atopic dermatitis remains on his elbows or behind his knees. He now has his clean, transparent, infant skin back.

It was really bad when the treatment first began. He was covered with blood. But the bleeding would stop when we'd wipe him with tissue paper soaked in that water we get from Akashi Hospital. I am just amazed that he was cured to this degree just by water.

Akashi Hospital is sending electrolyzed alkaline and strong acidic water to patients at cost.

Eleven months after he started the treatment, Ryuki was doing fine without any return to the illness. He is now healthy enough to eat eggs, which he couldn't do before, because of allergies.

Ryuki has a big appetite. He eats more than adults. He has a lot of energy now, is more active and has more facial expressions.

It has been four months since Saki and Yu have been switched from steroids to alkaline ionized water treatment. The redness has gradually subsided and the itching is improving. They have only mild itchiness now.

Their mother purchased this equipment as soon as it was put on the market. This machine creates exactly the same highly disinfectant, strong acidic water as that created by the larger equipment for hospital use.

How much improvement can you see in their atopic dermatitis after treatment with ionized water?

Since August, I have seen about 2,000 new patients. I think that in about 4 months, 80-90% of them will be cured, and if those who take a little longer are included, almost everyone will be cured.

Experiments have been conducted to prove that ionized water is effective in curing rats too. Experiments were done in which DNFB [a benzene compound that causes a rash] was applied to the right ears of two rats to see if any difference would be seen between the methods of treatment.

As you can see, the rash on the right ear of the rat that was given alkaline water to drink has clearly gotten better compared to the rash of the rat that was given only regular tap water.

It has been 7 months now since Saki and Yu started their ionized water treatment. Yes, their skin became so clean. These two girls were really in bad condition. The redness and itchiness were very severe. It would have been clear to anyone that their condition was serious. Even so, their skin became this clean.

Finally, in the last week or so, they stopped waking in the middle of the night. For the first time since the twins were born, the Matsubara family welcomed in the New Year without cries at night. There will be pictures in the album of the twins with clean skin from now on.

As you can see, strong acidic water does not have immediate effects on atopic dermatitis. They say that you should expect to wait for about 6 months before you see the change. It may take some time before you see the change, but it is water you are taking during that time, so there are no side effects.

Yes. And if you were on steroids prior to the water treatment, they say that it will take about three months longer. This water treatment is also effective in adult cases of atopic dermatitis.
